

Winter view through a Chinese Jujube plantation located on one of the loess terraces near Lingpau in the Honan province of China. In the background is a Buddhist temple surrounded by old arbor vitae trees. The Jujube (Zizyphus jujuba) is grown for its fruits which when preserved resemble dates. It has proven hardy where the temperature goes to 22° F. Photo No. A 38, by F. N. Meyer, Lingpau, Honan, China.
